

BEACH EXPERTS ANNOUNCE WINNERS OF BEST BEACH PROPERTY AWARDS

www.beachtomato.com

18 October 2011 - Having launched their first Beach Property Awards last month handpicking the best beach-side properties to stay in around the world, Beach Tomato has announced its final winners. The judging panel, made up of Beach Tomato Editor, Kirsty Hathaway and co-founders, Tom Marchant, James Merrett and Matt Smith, together with the team of Beach Tomato travel experts selected the winning properties with three categories open to the public vote.

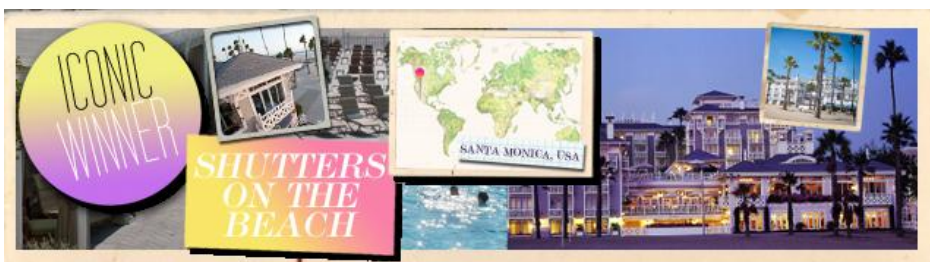

Co-founder, Tom Marchant, says, "Beach Tomato has become the go-to destination for honest, discerning advice on all things beach. We want to share the very best of beach culture, so the Property Awards was a fantastic opportunity to provide our readers with insightful, first-hand information on the most desirable beach properties from around the world."

Editor, Kirsty Hathaway, adds, "Since the launch of Beach Tomato we have uncovered the best of the beach for 2011, discovered some of the most exciting emerging design talent and revealed the beauty products that genuinely work. So for us bringing beach-side property on to the site was a natural progression. We're delighted to finally announce those beach properties we felt truly outshine the rest."

The Winners: The Beach Tomato Beach Property Awards were divided in to nine categories including the Judges Choice categories: Private Sands, Sexy, Scene, Local Flavour, On Water, Spa and the Public Vote categories: Iconic, Unique and View. On top of this one lucky voter will win four nights at the luxury Kenoa Resort, Brazil, alongside a hamper of indulgent spa products.
